Cure Warranted. IF DIRECTIONS ARE POLLOWED.

The symptoms of Catarrb, as they generally appear, are at first very elight. Persons find they have frequent attack, and are more sensitive to the changes of temperature. In this condition, the nose may be dry, or a slight discharge, thin and seried, a storwards becoming this and scheeivs. As the dissease becomes chronic the discharges are increased in quantity and changed in quality; they are most thick and heavy and are hawhed or coughed off. The secretions are oftensive, causing a bad hreath; the voice is thick and nasel; the owns of the small is issuenced or destroyed; deafness frequently takes places. Another common and important symptom of Catarrh is, that the person is obliged to clear his threat in the morning of a thick or dinay mucus, which has fallen down from the head during the night. When this takes place the person may be sure that his disease is on its way to the image, and should less no time in acrealing it. The above are buffer of the most Chiarrh symptoms. SYMPTOMS:

THROUGH THE BUINS.

HE "CAN KEEP A HOTEL."

ion of the news of the fall of Richmond in Washington is furnished to the Cininnati Gazette by its correspondent turned from one another, to acknowledge the rush of blood-hot congratulations that had suddenly transfermed him-revival though it was of the age of miracles—into the most popular man in Washington.

Foreign ministers were hurrying to the State Department with their congratula-tions; the Secretaries were giving holidays to their armies of cierks, and vainly trying to make speeches enough to furnish fit answer to the endless volleys of cheers; processions, headed by the omnipresent Stars and Stripes, suddenly sprang out of chaos on the streets; every glimpee of bunting with the Red, White and Blue was cheered, as it passed, to the echo; Ben. Butler was summoned from the hotel to receive the homage of the vast crowd ery Blair's door-steps, from the hotel piszzas; the faces of the negroes yawned into vast caverns of red, bounded by ivory, to one another, amid their shakings and chucklings, "I say, Sam, d'ye hear, de niggahs tuck Riemmond," the crowds ocked the streets till our carriage could hardly force its way through them to the whari of the boat for City Point. Aboard, the scene was scarcely less tumultuous. Every man insisted on every other man's straightway bolting brandy a good deal of self-denial to resist. Carl Shurz was in the crowd, nervous and restless, because steam couldn't make faster time. He had just procured an assignment to duty under Sherman, and here the war was going to end before he could get into the field. Barlow, boy and Major-General, with the scars of half a dozen surgically-pronounced-mortal wounds upon him, was hurrying direct from the last Cunard steamer, to get into the field again and see the last of it. A swarm of officers, recalled by the army's triumphs from halfexpired furloughs, or just exchanged from rabel prisons, were eager to catch up with their commands before the final struggle. And, to be sure, there were not wanting sen who wanted trade permits for stores in Richmond, and sutlers who must burry
